

"that of producing at one point exactly or approximately a message selected at another point."

"the semantic aspects of communication are irrelevant to the engineering problem".